Parent's Practice Tip # 42:

JOY

I begin the year with lots of hope that your child will find something to love about piano lessons this year, and take off running.

There are things a family can do to help a child find joy in playing piano, and learning new music.

1. Listen to your child practice, find a way to enjoy what they are playing.
2. Keep the piano tuned. Keep the piano tuned. Keep the piano tuned.
3. Make all lessons, repertoire classes, and special events a family priority. Attend either the Brian Ganz or Lucas Debargue or Jean Rondeau concerts. If you don't put these events on the calendar, they are not a priority.
4. LET YOUR CHILD KNOW LIVE MUSIC IS A JOY FOR YOU. How? See items 1-3.
